Founded in 1978, Shakespeare & Company is a unique American institution, nationally recognized for creating top-tier performance, professional artist training and inventive education programs.

For 30 years, the Company has encouraged audiences and artists to engage the three vital questions that lie at the heart of every Shakespeare play:

What does it mean to be alive?
How should we act?
What must I do?

Shakespeare & Company is committed to becoming the American Center for Shakespeare Performance, Training and Education, where audiences of every age can discover the beauty of language and explore, debate and find freedom through dialogue and intellectual renewal.
